Effects and Problems

Effects your students have gained	Points for further improvement
They have moved away from the habit of being ignorant. As a result, they are aware of the issues affecting the world, especially the topics we have worked on. They have proposed solutions to end hunger and how to avoid wasting resources and products.	The aspects that can be worked on further or areas that still require improvement are primarily awareness in the broader sense and teaching society about resource management. Especially in Madagascar.

How has your impression toward your partner's country/region and the world changed?

Changes in the students	Changes in the teachers
More responsible	The teachers are more involved in achieving the project's objective, more aware of their roles in making it important to share with students their perception of the world's situation.

Effect and evaluation gained through the collaborative learning

Evaluation: Rank 5 to 1 (5: very effective / 4: effective / 3: so- so / 2: not so effective / 1: not effective at all)

Expected effect	Evaluation	Scenes and reasons that teachers felt the effects
Cross-cultural understanding	5	The teachers appreciated the cultural exchanges and we were able to develop many diverse contexts.
Active learning	4	It was very important to have the active learning because in Madagascar, especially in Ambatolampy, we were not completely engaged on it, it changes us.
Critical thinking	5	To have a critical thinking is essential as I allowed for a thorough analysis of the situation and enables clear explanation to the students so that they could perceive both the implicit and explicit content of themes studied.
Collaborating with different people	5	It was a very cheerful appreciation to collaborate with different people.
Expressing in words, in shape	5	I believe that the Artmile Project, being so extensive and reaching all countries, is a project that can change the world and lead to the achievement of all Sustainable Development Goals. It has been a real pleasure to work on it. May all students who participated become agents of sustainable development, and may everything they have achieved and shown on the mural touch the hearts and souls of everyone for a better world.
